UNAC Spotlight: Committee on Non-Tenure Track (NTT) Members

This new, ad-hoc committee was convened in Spring 2023 at the urging of former UAF Org VP Mara Bacsujlaky, a grant-funded NTT faculty member at UAF's Cooperative Extension, who has since resigned from UAF for other work.

Current committee members:
- Rosemarie Alexander-Isett, UAS, Assistant Professor, Communication, NTT co-chair
- Kimberly Pace, UAA, Assistant Professor, Political Science and Women’s Studies, NTT co-chair
- Robert Herrick, UAF Research Professor, Institute of Northern Engineering
- Sue Fallon, UAF-IAC, Associate Professor, Human Services
- Richie Berndt, UAF-CTC, Assistant Professor, EMS/Paramedicine/Paramedic Academy

Any dues paying UNAC member interested in joining this committee should fill out this form.
Committee Tasks

Task 1: Recommend a plan to the Executive Board and Representative Assembly for better union representation of non-tenure track members.

Recommendation 1: Include a non-tenure track member on our Negotiation Team when possible.

*Our previous Negotiation Team also had an NTT member; this recommendation makes it official in our by-laws.

Results: RA approved by-laws change in fall 2023.

E-Board implemented with selection of an NTT member on our new Negotiation Team.

Recommendation 2: Make the Committee on Non-Tenure Track Members a standing, permanent committee of the union.

Results: RA approved and will vote on new by-laws language at its meeting April 13, 2024.

This change will also require a constitutional amendment, which requires a vote by all dues paying members-in-good-standing, pending RA approval of the new by-laws language.

Task 2: Communicate with and assess non-tenure track members’ circumstances and priorities for job improvements.

Actions:
- Talked 1-1 with NTT colleagues
- Compared UA NTT positions to NTT positions at other schools
- Surveyed UNAC’s 428 NTT members (35% response rate)
- Communicated survey results to NTT members via email.

Following is a summary of the survey results:
Out of 149 responses:
Respondents: 17 post docs, 32 research faculty, 92 teaching faculty, 6 service faculty, 10 'other'

- 79% work on single year contracts
- 40% have held their current job for over 5 years
- 28% have held their current job for less than one year
- 30% regularly or sometimes apply for different jobs

- 17% have undergone a successful promotion
- 13% of those eligible for promotion have been told by supervisors they are ineligible

Priorities for NTT Job Security Improvements:

1. A systematic approach to multi-year contracts*
2. Path from NTT to TT and from post doc to NTT research faculty
3. Longer non-retention periods

*starting with a probationary period of annual contracts, with progressively longer contract periods up to 5 years each
The survey results show what all of us should already know: NTT members at UA (and across the country) work with very little job security, normally on 9 or 12 month contracts. Better job security is a high priority for this segment (39%) of our bargaining unit.

NTT job security should be a top priority for all of us.

Tone Policing is an Exercise in Power

Those with more social power (race/class/gender/sexuality/ability) and/or institutional power (faculty v. administrator) use what is called “tone policing” to shut down conversations that make them uncomfortable. They accuse those with less power of being unprofessional, unproductive and/or disrespectful in their “tone” especially when what is being communicated is critical of those in power or the power structure and is communicated with charged emotions such as anger, frustration, sadness and/or fear.

This is decidedly unhealthy in academic institutions that operate under the democratic ideals of shared governance which necessarily includes critique and dissention. A university is not a corporation that operates under an rigid top-down authority structure where decisions are made at the top and carried out by those below. Instead, leaders in democratic institutions are supposed to look to those faculty and staff for solutions that make the university better able to carry out its mission. Administrators must recognize that professionals come from many different backgrounds with a wide range of culturally accepted communication standards; as such, flexibility, understanding, and good intentions are essential.

UNAC continues to see the accusation of “improper tone” directed toward our members, which has sometimes resulted in formal letters of expectation. If you feel that you are being “tone policed,” contact your campus Organizational Vice President.

UNAC is committed to AAUP’s mission of advancing and protecting academic freedom through our collective bargaining agreement and support to members. In addition, Board of Regents Policy states that academic freedom, and the first amendment right to free speech under the U.S. Constitution, are essential functions of the university (BOR Policy 01.02.010):

“The essential purpose of the university is to engage in the pursuit of truth, the advancement of learning and the dissemination of knowledge. To achieve this purpose, all members of the university must be assured of the constitutionally protected right to question, speculate, and comment, as well as the right to criticize the university and society at large.”

Help us to advance and protect academic freedom at UAA, UAF, and UAS:

- Support free and honest inquiry and criticism by voicing your professional opinions and supporting others when they do the same.
- Assume good will and common goals even when strong tones are used or unpopular opinions are voiced. Academic discourse is a pillar of academia.
Contact your UNAC Organizational Vice President if you've received a Letter of Expectation or have concerns about attempts to curtail speech (contacts below).
